Try to find the existing old military community and possible site for intervention

Try to find the existing old military community and possible site for intervention. Go back to Taichung Down Town to search for an old military community. To observe the neighborhood nearby and to define the use of the abandoned buildings on site will be proceeded. To find out the spatial structure of the site and look for the possibility of development scheme would be the next step. Finally, this project will further define the events and activities, which should occur on site in the future.

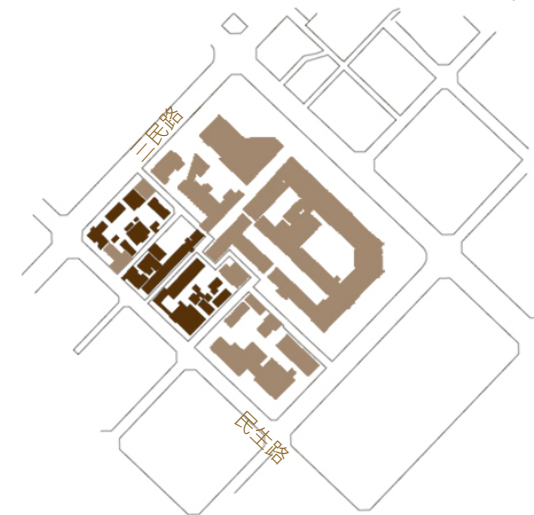

Medium size urban block

In the time before, the government occupied the entire street blocks and turned them into an office space.
